☺ We definitely take a step closer to Heaven when we awaken from the illusion of blaming others for the discomforts of our own life. Society currently finds ample reward in its fashionable 'victim mentality'. How much easier is it to deny personal responsibility, to say, 'The Devil / bad childhood / friends / television / genetics / rock music made me do it!' Granted, these pervasive influences are often not easy to transcend; but we can still control our perceptions or thoughts. Astonishingly, the same 'bad' life could just as easily be interpreted, by a more enlightened viewer, as Heaven on Earth. 'One man's food is another man's poison.'

Our anger, fear and guilt separate us, like barbed wire, from a cascade of natural Beauty surrounding us. A walk in Nature helps to remove this sense of isolation. We become unified, through Love and Gratitude, with the Grace of God. Our magnificent Universe recites volumes to us, fills our eyes with radiant images, and lifts us to higher planes.

Little children close their eyes, and in darkness imagine themselves powerful because the stars disappear. May we open our eyes and come to know the beauty that's true. ●
