

INNER & THOUGHT & OUTER CONDITION

We need to embrace our inner creativity and listen to our Soul in order to live life in rhythmic harmony.

He is a leading inspirational speaker, authority on human behaviour, teacher and author. His knowledge and experience are a culmination of 35 years of research and study of more than 28 000 texts in over 200 disciplines ranging from psychology, philosophy, metaphysics and theology to neurology and physiology.

 All existence is based on two components, Sound and Light. 'And God said, "Let there be Light, and there was Light".' Every one of us resonates on a specific and unique frequency or 'fingerprint' of Sound and Light, just as each crystal or musical instrument has its very own individual tone and hue. Whatever this frequency, circumstances are attracted to us which harmonise with it. Like attracts like; water seeks its own level. If we fear, then a disharmony of fear is brought forth, until we learn to change our tune, for such is the order and freedom of the Universe. If we Love, then Heaven's own choir sings with us.

Several old-fashioned cuckoo clocks can be placed on a wall, with their pendulums swinging at different rates. Within a day, all the pendulums will swing together in unison.

A tuning fork, which is struck and then held near the strings of a guitar, will cause the guitar to hum along. This is the law of harmonic vibration. Humanity itself marches in armies to the beat of whatever distant drummer is most attractive at the moment. Even our Universe has rhythm; just ask the stars.

Our mind is continuously reflecting lightness and darkness, generating a symphony or cacophony of our dominant thoughts. Imbalanced dominant thoughts produce an unappealing disharmony called 'noise.' A room full of quiet children is improbable at best, unless the teacher is there to guide them. Adults generate a more sophisticated, more practised brand of noise. If at some point a strong and dominating desire arises for a person, place, or thing (called an infatuation), a pattern arises in which later infatuations and inevitable resentments dominate otherwise sensible behaviour. Witness today's modern newlyweds, each on their third marriage, while the band plays 'Love is a Many-Splendoured Thing'.

If we focus on poverty, then poverty calls for the song of further poverty, to support our illusion of that vision. What we fear comes near, because we strengthen our focus on that thought. If we loosen the bonds of fear, concentrating instead on Love, the opposite occurs: a focus point of wealth, material or spiritual, resonates with the Universal law of mental precipitation. Nothing succeeds like success; and banks are always happy to lend money to people who have plenty of it. We ourselves choose what will enter our lives, as victim or victor, consciously or unconsciously, according to our needs, wants, desires and loves.

It is our destiny to recognise our Creator, and the creativity endowed within us. We become Masters of Life insofar as we demonstrate our understanding of Love, Wisdom, Power, Grace, Humility and Gratitude. Our mind is purified, drop-by-drop, as we learn to edit our dominant thoughts, eliminating dense and cloudy obfuscation, and listening to clear messages of our Soul, with its music of the spheres and harmony of the angels. We are guided by our Soul upward, outward to the Light and Sound of God. For it is commanded, 'They who have eyes, let them see, and they who have ears, let them hear.' ●
