More about Dr. John Demartini

John Demartini was born on Thanksgiving Day in 1954 with some initial challenges. He had a leg and hand deformity that restricted him in braces from age two to four. He was also dyslexic and did not learn to functionally read until he was 18 years old. At age 7, his first grade teacher announced, in front of him, to his parents that he had a learning disability and that he would never read, write, communicate, never amount to anything, or go very far in life.

At the age of 14, uninspired by academics, he quit school. He left home with his parents blessing and headed for California and Hawaii to fulfill his love of surfing. The next four years of Demartini's life were a blend of homelessness, panhandling to survive, drugs, alcohol and surfing. At age 17 John Demartini met an elderly man named Paul Bragg, a well-known naturopath who revolutionized the American health food industry. Paul Bragg was the catalyst in awakening his desire to conquer his learning disability, get an education and make a difference in the world. As a result of this new vision to learn, Demartini picked up his surf board, returned home to Texas and went back to school.

From Dyslexia to Academia

With focus and determined effort, he broke through his dyslexia and mastered reading and writing. He passed his GED and then wrote his SATS and attained entry level into Wharton Junior College. He then progressed to the University of Houston where he completed his Bachelors of Science degree in 1978. He went on to study Chiropractic at the Texas Chiropractic College where he graduated with honors - Magna Cum Laude in 1982.

From that time Dr. Demartini immersed himself in books covering subjects from cosmology, astronomy, astrophysics, physics, metaphysics, theology, mythology, philosophy, anthropology, economics, sociology, psychology until eventually his insatiable interest took him through the studies of over 280 different academic disciplines.

At the age of 18 he read a book by the philosopher Wilhelm Leibniz titled 'Discourse on Metaphysics'. In the first chapter Leibniz spoke about what he called the 'Divine Perfection, Love and Order'. Leibniz said that few people ever came to experience this highly ordered awareness, but those who did had their lives changed forever. This idea further inspired Dr. Demartini to set out on a quest to find a way of helping himself and others discover and experience this underlying divine or implicate order that Leibniz spoke of. Today, we now know that Dr. Demartini did master a way which is called the Demartini Method®.
